Last Moment Styles.

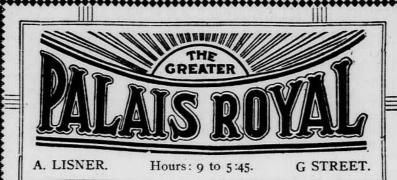

One learns of the styles at the Waldorf afternoon teas.

Miss Dell, the Palais Royal milliner-in-chief, lately from New York, reports velvet hats mostly seen, small and larger rolling sailors, with ostrich novelties the trimmings.

The hats-untrimmed-are here at $5.00. The ostrich bands and novelties at $1.98 to

The trimmed hats pictured -and others-are only $10. "Sand" is among the new colors.

On view in Second Floor Parlors.

A Demonstration Week

High-Class Novelties

The new building lately opened creates a much greater Palais Royal, associated with enlarged departments, overflowing with high-class novelties, shown to the best possible advantage. Every department is worthy a visit—especially during this 'Demonstration Week."

The new parlors for hairdressing, shampooing, massage and manicuring, linked with the services of Mme. Moeller and her famous experts, assure satisfaction to the most hypercritical visitor.

A Sale of Hair Used in Demonstrations. $1.49 for the Switches-used only on inanimate forms. 89c for the Transformations-used only on inanimate

Evening Costumes at $20 to $75

Exceedingly Charming Creations for Parties, Tango Teas, Dinners, Dances, Theater, Opera, Receptions and Restaurant Wear

As little as $22.50 for two-piece gowns of duchess satin, in delicate shades, the bodices of which fasten in front with a rose corsage, the panel of satin extending almost to the knees in front; the skirt, 3-tier effect, the two top tiers of dainty ecru lace, while the lower is of the satin. At $55.00 is a gem that will be judged worth $75.00—this gown is of silk net, with gold embroidery on flounce and bodice; chiffon velvet girdle and flounce under net. Other gowns of chiffons, laces, sequined; combinations on white satin; black accordion-pleated chiffon over white satin. Many others, each bearing the trade-mark of authenticity. The prices-$20.00 to $75.00—will be deemed low when these costumes are seen.
